Trustee's Thoughts

What makes this coffee so good?

Ronke

God at times permits heartbreaks. He allows us to suffer. He lets the ground grow dry and stalks to grow bare. He allows Satan to unleash turmoil. But he doesn't allow Satan to triumph. Isn't this the promise of Romans 8:28 (my favourite verse in the Bible): "And we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose" (NIV)? God promises to render beauty and good out of "all things," not "each thing." The isolated events may be unpleasant, but the ultimate result is good.

We see small examples of this in our own lives. When you sip on a cup of coffee and say, "This is good," what are you saying? The mug that contains the coffee is good? The coffee granules by themselves are good? Hot water is good? The coffee filter is good? No, none of these. Good happens when all the ingredients work together: the bag or tin is opened, the coffee is added to your cup, the water heated to the right temperature. And if you take sugar and milk, the right amounts of each are added. It is the collective collaboration of all the elements that creates good.

Nothing in the Bible would cause us to say a famine is good or a heart attack is good or needing a liver transplant is good. These are terrible catastrophes, born out of a fallen earth. Yet every message in the Bible, especially the story of Joseph, makes us to believe that God will mix them with other ingredients and bring good out of them.

But we must let God define 'good.' Our definition includes health, comfort, and acknowledgement. His definition? In the case of his Son, Jesus Christ, the good life consisted of struggles, storms, and death. But God worked it all together for the greatest of all good: his glory and our salvation.

Some days you honestly wonder why you ever crawled out from under the duvet that morning. But whatever you are going through this month, remember Isaiah 41:10 Do not fear, for I am with you, do not be afraid, for I am your God; I will strengthen you, I will help you, I will uphold you with my victorious right hand.

Above all:

- 1. Let us not lose heart. Don't quit, whatever you do.
- 2. Let us do good (Scream. Pout. Get irritated. But do good!)
- 3. Let grace be with your spirit. Allow the full impact of grace to flow through your thoughts, your attitudes, your responses and your words.

Update

Sunday School

In September we restarted a Sunday School aimed at the children who are going to infant school. We have had two sessions and had 4 children at the first one and 8 visited the second.

There has been some brilliant listening to the events at Easter and also Jonah. We then do some simple colouring afterwards.

At the end a star of the week is chosen to see who has listened the best and tried their hardest.

We will be trying (where we can) to fit the Sunday School to what is in the service, but please do talk to the children about what story it is that they've had that week when they come back in.

We're planning to be running it on the services other than the 1st and 2nd of the month.
